

Computing with matrix groups over infinite fields

Alla Detinko

In this talk a new approach to computing with matrix groups over infinite domains will be discussed. The approach is based on techniques and results of linear group theory. As an illustration of the efficiency of the approach, recently developed algorithms for computing with some classes of virtually solvable matrix groups will be presented.